SEEMED EASY TO SELECT THE WINNERS.

As a Rule, Favorites and Second Choices Won All the Races at the Fair Grounds.

THE LIGHT BEAT CUTHBERT.

Orleans Won a Good Race at Nice Odds From a Large Field-Eight Bells at Good Odds.

It was The Republic's day to shine at the tace track yesterday, Mr. Woods and Pirate of Penzance were cocks of the walk the day previous with their winning sons. Yesterday The Republic selections won every race on the card. Come again, Mr. Woods and Pirate of Penzance. Six races is a nice mark for tipsters, jockeys and sires to shoot at Even C. R. Mackensie will have to get his little repeating shotgun.

There was nothing to the races yesterday. It was rank robbery of poor but honest bookmakers to bet on them. After the races "Aytche" Louis Massie, the actor, who plays the tout in the "Derby Winner," just as natural as life said that taking the money from the okmakers was just like a big policeman taking candy from a sick kid in Congo Park. Mr. Massie plays the tout evenings and fills the part full. Big Jim Cunningham, the Fair Grounds bouncer, came in late last night and took a front seat. True to life

Mr. Massle plays the tout evenings and fills the part full. Big Jim Cunningham, the Fair Grounds bouncer, came in late last night and took a front seat. True to life Mr. Massle ducked out the stage. He feared Mr. Cunningham would eject him from his own theater. They do say that "Aytche" Is one of the things to see and hear. They have it on the bills, "Massle," by himself.

The racing day was fine and the sport great. Nothing to the racing but The Republic selections. They were not made up by the turf editor. The turf editor is sick. The dog editor, who does bench shows and coursing in the winter and baseball in the dog days, made the selections. He is a good judge of dogs. He can also pick the races a bit when he feels like it. One job kind of runs right into the other.

The first two races were cheap scrambles, neither here nor there, but the best mars won. Wonderful to relate, J. Woods landed a favorite. J. Woods is not in the habt of landing favorites. It is said that he has been alling with boils, which grew between alling and the saddle. They affected his riding on favorites. Strange they did not seem to affect his riding on long shots. Maybe favorites have harder backs and jog harder than long shots.

Just how people, foolish people, could bet on Quick Range at 4 to 5 to heat Orleans at 6 to 1 was not easily discernible.

On past performances Orleans was entitled to the money, and Quick Range was entitled to whip the bunch in. It came that way. The Republic said it would, Quick Range had no chance on earth to get his nose in the coin. He had no chance to beat Pirate's Daughter. Scorpolette or The Butcher The Butcher ran away, four miles before the race, doing a mile at every break. Scorpolette also ran away giving him he heard on the real and cry. "Left forward; fours, left, March, Trot, Gallop," and the dopester's horse would walk in.

Now, there was another funny thing in the fourth race, Ed Fryar called it a "bloomink bum so." They backed St. Cuthbert to beat The Light, On The Light's race against Tom rides in an automobile.

J. T. Woods gave Orris a nice ride in the distance race and was always the best. Lurdan ran right where he belonged to a Dominick got Eight Bells off in front and kept her there in the last race. How the people could back Doralice from 5 to 3 to 1, with J. Woods up, is a mystery. If J. Woods was Tod Sloan, whom he may be if the theories of transmigration of skill can be accepted as correct, he could not make Doralice finish anywhere but where she did finish, which was eleventh in a twelve-horse race. Had Nadrone not been cut down, Doralice would have finished twelfth, J. Woods or no J. Woods.

It was a great day for racing—everything right up to form. President Auli certainly keeps things right and clean about the Fair Grounds, and picking winners is a picnic. Any one can do it.

REPUBLIC TIPS SWEPT THE CARD.

EVERY WINNING HORSE AT THE FAIR GROUNDS YESTERDAY WAS CHOSEN TO FINISH FIRST.

Yesterday The Republic broke all records for picking winners at a local race track. Of six races on the card at the Fair Grounds The Republic picked six winners, This is the first time this feat has been accomplished by a St. Louis newspaper. Besides picking six winners, The Republic had six other horses in the money. Twelve of eighteen horses in the money were chosen there by The Republic. It was a matter of extreme difficulty to pick winners in the races yesterday. The fields were large and of very poor class. Form was hard to follow. The riders are like the horses, of hard, poorish class. Hence, the races were not easy to choose winners when big fields, poor riders and lack of class are taken into consideration. In the smallest race, the fourth, five horses started. The Light and St. Cuthbert were about equal favorites. The Republic tipped the race one, two, three. In none of the other races did less than ten horses start. In but one race, the second, did The Republic fall to get more than one horse in the money.

Pirate's Daughter was chosen for the place in the third race. Her price was 6 to 1 for that position. Lurdan was chosen to show in the fifth race. As good as 20 to 1 could be had against him at one time for third place.

show in the fifth race. As good as 20 to 1 could be had against him at one time for third place.

The horses picked by The Republic were natural choices and ran to form. They were for the most part favorites and second choices. Orleans at 6 to 1 was the longest shot picked to win.

The Republic also showed discrimination in refusing to give odds-on choic— which every one regarded as "pipes," a "caa," when it deemed them unworthy of it. For instance, it did not give the 4-to-5 favorite, Quick Range-deemed a cinch-a chance in the third race. He did not have a chance, He ran a bad sixth. That is where it took good judgment. Any one can pick a horse to win, but to place an even-money shot out of the money takes knowledge and every one thought St. Cuthbert would beat The Light. The latter horse is right at the top of her form now. St. Cuthbert would beat The Light. The latter horse is right at the top of her form now. St. Cuthbert never had a chance; It was the only small race of the day. The Republic called it one, two three, and could have made it four, five if necessary.

Eight Bells, chosen to win the last race by The Republic, was allowed to go up in the betting from 5 to 2 to 4 to 1. Then Doralice was backed down from 5 to 7 to 2.

Five dollars bet straight on The Republic tips and parleyed right through the six races would have brought its bettor $3,445 during the day.

Five dollars at 2 to 1 on Tigris would have given a bettor $15. Betting that $15 on Chemisette, at 2 to 1, would have given the plunger $45. Betting that $45 on Orleans at 6 to 1 would have given him $75. This princely sum would have given him $75. This princely sum would have sent Mr. Steve L'Hommedieu against Orris at 2 to 1. This would have given him $75. This form hours' labor. Not such a bad sum for one warm afternoon's work. He might have sipped wine on the clubhouse poren and had a commissioner place his money. It looks like better "doings" than the cape Nome and the Klondike.

The turf editor of The Republic has enly one gifevance. The

YOUNG'S SHOOTS WERE HIT HARD.

Superbas Played With the Twirling Things Handed Out by the Big Cyrus.

PAT DONOVAN'S GREAT CATCH.

Jennings's Hit Looked Good for a Triple, but Pat Nabbed It-Donlin Made a Double, Triple and Homer.

Cyrus Young was bumped unmercifully by Ned Hanlon's Superbas yesterday. It was a clever, scientific walloping. No Sharkey methods were used by the visitors. They did not slaughter the former, but just landed on him hard enough to win, with something to spare. Young's seconds did not give him any help. They made all sorts of errors, but, then, they always do in a losing fight, when their principal is being landed on at will.

Seventeen safe singles for a total of eighteen bases was the result of the walloping. They all came when needed, it was great baseball at the bat, that which was played by the champions. They did not try to kill the ball at any time. Dinky singles just past the infield were the sort they made, but they were effective. Daly led with four out they were elective. Daly led with four singles out of as many times at the but. Keeler, Jennings, Kelley, Dahlen, Farrell and Kitson made two each. Jones sot one and Cross was the only one to miss out altogether.

Young had no speed. It appeared as though he possessed some when the game started, but in the second inning the ball looked like a balloon, and seemed easy to hit. As is always the case when the pitcher is hit hard, there was pienty of errors.

Keister showed the poorest form. He was away off; in fact, he has been playing bad ball for the past several days. He had a double play in his hands in the ninth inning, but fell down miserably. Dahlen was on first when Cross hit to McGraw. The latter handed the sphere to Keister in good style, but Billy muffed like a schoolboy, and all hands were safe. Two runs came from the error. Keister also erred on an easy grounder in the first inning, but it! did not prove costly.

Although Brooklyn made seventers hit. Young had no speed. It appeared as JOE KELLEY'S CLEVER CATCH. He Laid for One of McGraw's Fouls and Nabbed It.

Joe Kelley fooled McGraw eleverly in the seventh inning. In the early innings McGraw fouled off several balls along the left-field foul line a short distance past third base. When he came to the plate in the seventh Joe laid for him. As usual, McGraw fouled off the first good one and it planted in Kelley's mitts.

in Kelley's mitts. Umpire Bob Emslie, who in past years had the reputation of being the best official in the League, has had considerable trouble during his stay in St. Louis. Every game in which he has officiated since the return of the St. Louis club has been full of wrangling. His decisions on balls and strikes are questioned alike. 'Tis said by those in on the know that Emslie's eyesight is falling him. Maybe a short rest would do him good. Umpires can grow stale just the same as a ball player. If a player gets too much of it he will have to take a lay-off or he will be of little use to his team. The same thing can obtain with an umpire. It is a great strain on a man's eyes and nerves to try to watch every play that comes up in the course of a game. Especially when you are surrounded by a lot of kleking ball players, who are anxious to see you err.

Even the great McGraw went to sleep a Even the great McGraw went to sieep at one stage of the game. In the sixth in-ning the ball was handed to Muggsy when Daly was several feet off the base. Mc-Graw caught the ball, but stood still, and Tom returned to the base in safety.

Many thought that Burkett should have Many thought that Burkett should have been charged with an error for letting Kelley's pop flp drop in front of him in the ninth Inning. Jess no doubt claims that Wallace scared him away when the latter came running out with the ball. It was Burkett's ball, however, and he should have camped under it, yelling at the top of his voice "I've got it!"

The peculiarity of Fielder Jones's given name has caused Nick Young no end of trouble. The following version of the correspondence between President Ebbetts and Uncle Nick is given by one of the Brooklyn

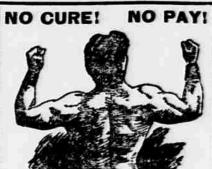

"Jones's name makes Nick Young wild every October. Now his front name is Fielder. That's been published 500 times, but still everybody thinks it's a josh. It isn't. It's his handle. Fielder A. Jones. So when Ebbetts sends down the name of Fielder Jones, Young writes back: 'Please send me Jones's correct name.' Ebbetts writes: 'His name is Fielder.' Young replies: 'His Christian name wouldn't be Shortstop if he played the infield.' And they never get it straightened out."

If Brooklyn should take a slump on the present Western trip Plitisburg stands an excellent chance of giving the Champions a hot fight for first honors at the finish. The Pirates are playing good ball-far better than any team in the League, barring, perhaps, Brooklyn.

The National League clubs are cutting off such material as is not absolutely necessary to carry. This is another indication that the attendance is not up to the standard and that the magnates are anxious to keep the expenses down to the minimum.

The record of 13 runs in one inning, made by Boston against St. Louis, was beaten only four times in the history of the National League. Cincinnati made 14 runs in the first inning against Louisville in 1893. Baltimore scored 14 runs against Boston in the ninth inning in 1894. Boston scored 16 runs in the first inning against Baltimore in 1894, and Chicago scored 18 runs against Detroit in the seventh inning in 1883.

Keeler of Brooklyn, who is considered one of the best hitters in the League, and one season led in batting, has gone this season seventeen games without a hit. Collins, the Boston third baseman, has this season played in fifty-five games without an error.

In resterday's paper a paragraph appeared which did Edward Hanlon, manager of the Brooklyn Baseball Club a great injustice. It was stated that Mr. Hanlon was a hard taskmaster on his baseball players, especially on his pitchers, that he worked them hard and then threw them aside like old rags. Nothing could be farther from the fact. No manager in the country treats his players with greater liberality and thoughtfulness than Mr. Hanlon, This is proven by the fact that no ball player ever worked for him who would not be glad to work for him again, and that no man ever left his employ with anything but the best words for him. Mr. Hanlon does ask his pitchers to give him the best they have while they are pitching. But he never put an unfit man in the box, never made a man pitch when he did not want to pitch, and always gives his pitcher all the time between games they want.

when he did not want to pitch, and always gives his pitcher all the time between games they want.

That Mr. Hanlon does not fill-use his pitchers is proven by the fact that recently all of them spent their off days pitching for amateur teams about Brooklyn and had to be restrained by their manager. If they were overworked by Mr. Hanlon they would not be so eager to pitch on off days. In fact, Kennedy, Kitson and Howell all claim that they do not get enough work and often ask to be worked more frequently. Kelly, Jennings and Keeler have been with Hanlon for seven years. McGraw was with him for a similar period. So was Robinson. Hanlon took Tom Daly out of a minor league and made him a star. He took Lave Cross from St. Louis when Lave was not resarded, by some, as a good third baseman. Look at Cross now.

Mr. Hanlon is the best manager in the League, bar, perhaps, McGraw, who is a manager by trade, but who is not working at his trade just now. Mr. Hanlon is a gentleman worthy of respect and commendation. He has done a great deal for baseball. The gentleman who wrote the matter referred to was evidently not familiar with Mr. Hanlon's reputation and record in baseball. The baseball editor of The Republic regrets exceedingly that an oversight should have permitted its publication in this column. have permitted its publication in this

TWO UMPIRES IN PITTSBURG.

Young Made a Mistake, Then Ordered Terry to "Fly" to Chicago.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 9.—For a few minutes to-day it looked as 'hough the double-umpire system had bear revived in Pittsburg. Smiling Bob Emsley, walking down Fifta avenue this morning, ran into William Terry, who had come into Pittsburg from the road about the same time.

Simultaneously the umpires said to each other: "What are you doing here?" It was soon found that both men had been ordered to Pittsburg to umpire the game with Bosten. Terry and Emsley went to the telegraph office and sent a message to Young, asking what was the matter.
